The Duke's Fake Sister
Is similar to

Disney
THE PRINCESS
DIARIES

...as both feature a "normal girl" thrust into a life
as a royal... and a sparky romance with a Prince!

Following an uprising, the nine-year-old princess of Grandia, Grizz Benedict, has gone missing. In fact, she ends up working as a maid in a brothel, really no better than a slave.

She spends eleven years in that hellhole but is fortunate enough to escape her prison.

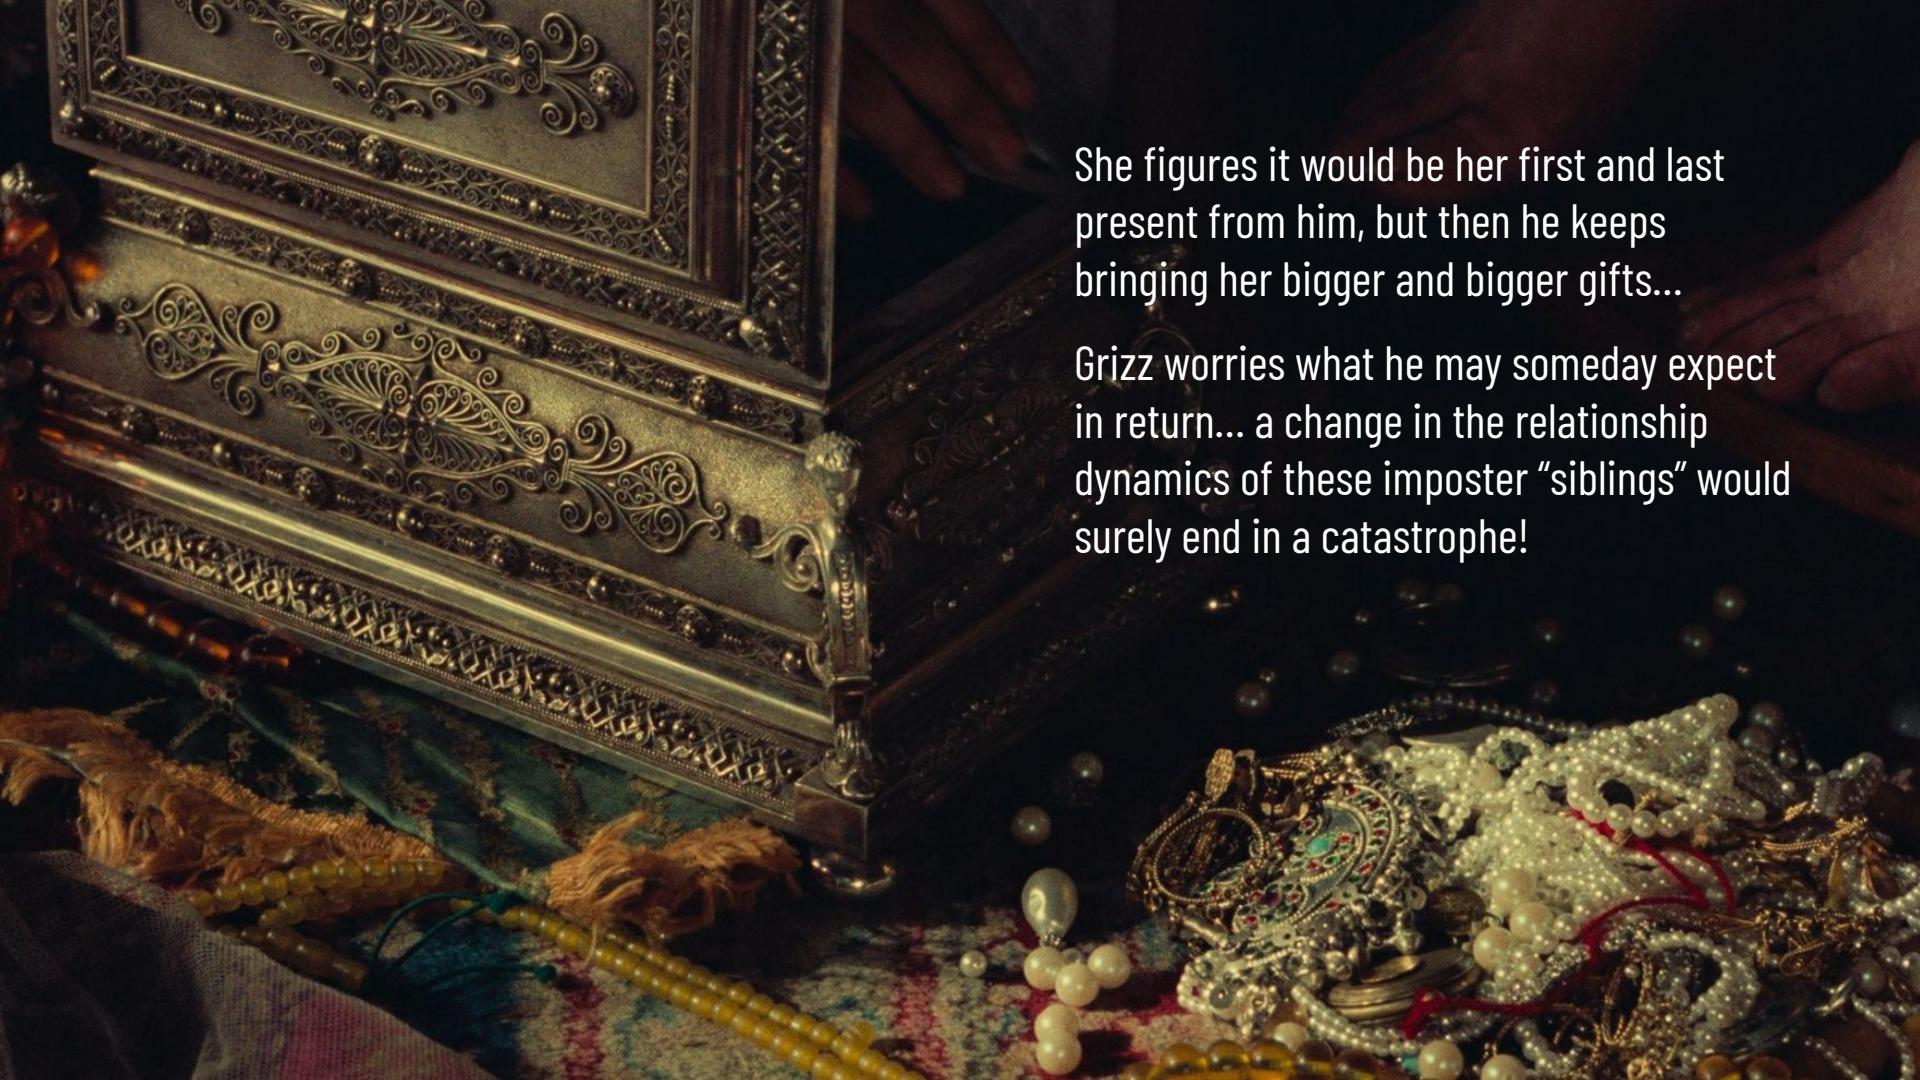

Apparently, she looks similar to the youngest daughter of the House of Byrenhag, who has also gone missing in the woods at a young age.

Her "uncle" promises to help her escape the brothel if only she pretends to be the missing young lady.

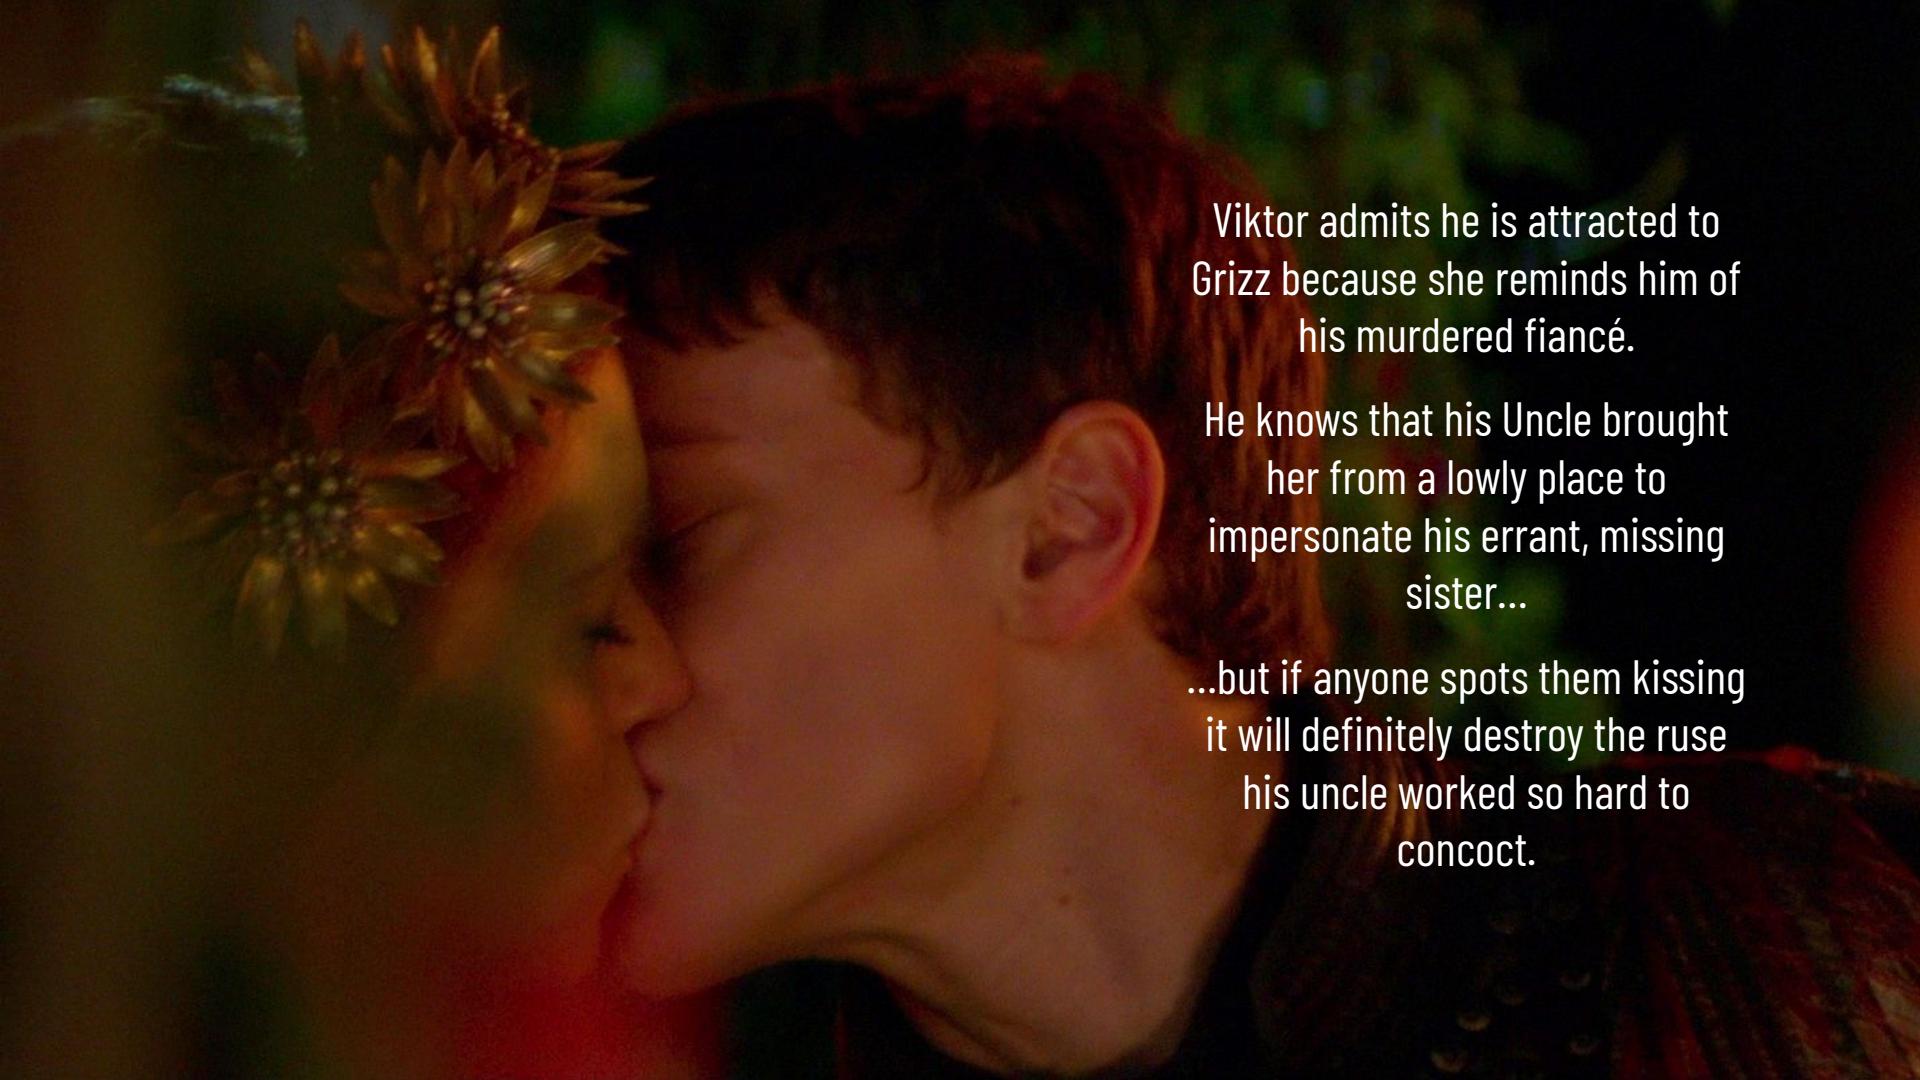

A small, white and tan dog with long, wavy fur is lying on its side on a dark brown couch. The dog's head is resting on a large, light blue cushion with a gold-colored floral or leafy pattern. The couch has a dark, textured fabric. The lighting is dramatic, coming from the side, which highlights the dog's fur and the texture of the couch.

Grizz accepts living a lie in order to survive. One day, she is gifted a small, cute
animal by her fake brother, Viktor, the Lord of Byrenzag.

She figures it would be her first and last present from him, but then he keeps bringing her bigger and bigger gifts...

Grizz worries what he may someday expect in return... a change in the relationship dynamics of these imposter "siblings" would surely end in a catastrophe!

Viktor admits he is attracted to Grizz because she reminds him of his murdered fiancé.

He knows that his Uncle brought her from a lowly place to impersonate his errant, missing sister...

...but if anyone spots them kissing
it will definitely destroy the ruse his uncle worked so hard to concoct.

Viktor explains he was once betrothed to the Princess of Grandia, but his Grandmother, fearing that Grandia would use the union to their political advantage, had the Princess and her entire family slaughtered as their carriage approached Viktor's family castle.

Although his bride-to-be was dead, he retained a painting of her - an eternal testament to her unique beauty.

The painting has transfixed him ever since.

A composite image. On the left, a woman's face is shown in profile, looking towards the right. She has dark hair and is wearing a dark, patterned garment. On the right, there is a painting of a young girl with long, wavy hair, wearing a crown and a necklace, dressed in a dark, ornate dress with a diamond pattern. The background is dark and textured.

Ironically, Viktor doesn't think Grizz looks anything like his sister...

...but, to him, she looks as if she is the very painting come to life!

Why is Grizz impersonating Viktor's sister, anyway?

To participate in a political marriage, which makes her burgeoning love with Viktor a threat to Viktor's own power-hungry, bloodthirsty family!
